

I have recently learned that Sinclair Broadcasting wants to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election. There is no indication that Sinclair has a similar directive for stations to air an anti-Bush documentary (such as "Going Upriver"). This, to me, is a clear example of abusing the rights of Free Speech by local stations. and directly contradicts the fair and balanced reporting that citizens need and expect.

Sinclair is obligated by law to serve the public interest. As a citizen I expect more substantive news about issues that matter (the war, healthcare, the economy, not partisan attacks from either side).

The license renewal process for companies that abuse their power needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
